

El Equipo

Publicity Stills

Photo Credits & Captions

Broadcast Premiere: Monday, October 9, 2023

- #01 ELEQUIPO_SigImage
Credit: Courtesy Eric Stover
Caption: The future members of the Argentine Forensic Anthropology Team pose for a photo.

- #02 ELEQUIPO_PubStill_02
Credit: Courtesy Eric Stover
Caption: Luis Fondebrider and Patricia Bernardi, members of the Argentine Forensic Anthropology Team, work in the Avellanada Cemetery in the outskirts of Buenos Aires in 1985

- #03 ELEQUIPO_PubStill_03
Credit: Roberto "Bear" Guerra
Caption: Dr. Kate Spradley, professor of Anthropology at Texas State University, leads a team of anthropology students in exhuming and identifying the remains of migrants buried on the southern border of Texas. Referring to the Argentine Forensic Anthropology Team, who serve as a model for her work, she says, "they have a process that has such dignity and respect. We wanted to just replicate what they did."

- #04 ELEQUIPO_PubStill_04
Credit: Roberto "Bear" Guerra
Caption: Dr. Kate Spradley, professor of Anthropology at Texas State University, leads a team of anthropology students in exhuming and identifying the remains of migrants buried on the southern border of Texas. Referring to the Argentine Forensic Anthropology Team, who serve as a model for her work, she says, "they have a process that has such dignity and respect. We wanted to just replicate what they did."

- #05 ELEQUIPO_PubStill_05
Credit: Roberto "Bear" Guerra
Caption: Dr. Kate Spradley, professor of Anthropology at Texas State University, leads a team of anthropology students in exhuming and identifying the remains of migrants buried on the southern border of Texas. Referring to the Argentine Forensic Anthropology Team, who serve as a model for her work, she says, "they have a process that has such dignity and respect. We wanted to just replicate what they did."
- #06 ELEQUIPO_PubStill_06
Credit: Roberto "Bear" Guerra
Caption: Dr. Kate Spradley, professor of Anthropology at Texas State University, leads a team of anthropology students in exhuming and identifying the remains of migrants buried on the southern border of Texas. Referring to the Argentine Forensic Anthropology Team, who serve as a model for her work, she says, "they have a process that has such dignity and respect. We wanted to just replicate what they did."

HEADSHOTS

ELEQUIPO_Headshot_BernardoRuiz

Credit: Taurat Hossain

Caption: Bernardo Ruiz, Documentary Filmmaker.

ELEQUIPO_Headshot_GabrielaAlcalde

Credit: Evan Garcia

Caption: Producer Gabriela Alcalde

ELEQUIPO_Headshot_FabiánCaballero

Credit: Georgette Maniatis

Caption: Editor Fabián Caballero

###